

Bear Shot Placement

Shooting Angles

The upper part of the bear indicates roughly the amount of vital area exposed at various angles. Placement of vital area depends on the angle of the shot.

While the head is a vital target of the hunter, blood loss is the best possible angle with some control of vital area exposed. Shots at the rear of the shoulder.

Welcome to the Big Bear County of Alaska

We offer the unique experience of personal attention; we are a small outfit which means that you won't get lost in the shuffle. When you book a hunt with us you will get an experienced, professional hunting guide not a "warm body with a guide's license". We help you prepare for your hunt before you arrive by helping get your gear organized, logistics arranged, and plans ironed out. All of this allows for better service and better success, as our past hunters will attest to. Don't hesitate to ask for our list of references. We are dedicated to making your adventure hunt as successful as possible.

We operate in many different remote and scenic parts of Alaska allowing us to choose the area's best suited to you and the game you wish to pursue. Whether it is brown or grizzly bear, Dall sheep, mountain goat, moose, caribou, Sitka deer, black bear, wolf or wolverine we can make it happen. We hold a sole use guide concession in the Denali Preserve adjacent to Denali Park. Being the only outfitter in this area gives us the opportunity to hunt hundreds of square miles without added pressure from other guides. We hunt Kodiak Island, the Alaska Range, and from our full service hunting/fishing lodge in the Lake Iliamna area.

Before we get deep into the hunting I want to fill you in on the processes of getting a license for the big bears.

Kodiak Bear on Kodiak Island or Coastal brown bear is on a no points drawing system with about a 30% chance of drawing the license. Every year you start at the same place since no preference points are used.

These bears get to the 10 foot mark and run $ 30,000 but I have discounted it down to only $23,995. The application period is May for a fall hunt.

A more workable option is I have some area in my concession next to the Denali Preserve. In this area of the Alaska I take inland brown bears. Although we have taken them squaring 9.3 the bulk are 8 foot to 9 foot which are great bears. The area is so unique it is like you are in a juristic park. The caribou there are caribou of the Barren ground species but live in the semi-mountain area and many have been over 400 class. I manage it well so we continue to take this quality every year. We only take 2 bears and 4 caribou per year as a rule and the quality is stable.

In addition I can get you a tag without the risk behind a drawing. The Interior Brown bear hunt I can also do for much less than the Kodiak hunt is $ 24,000 but I have discounted it down to only $17,995. This is a fall hunt so you can hunt caribou alone or in a bear combo. The sheep hunt is $25,000 but I have discounted it down to only $ 19,995 and the Caribou is $ 20,000 discounted down to only $14,995. These animals have an average age class much higher than the traditional age of these animals in other area. This is partly because of my management for sheep and because it is more difficult hunting then on the flat tundra for the caribou. This is a trophy hunter's paradise and I will continue to manage it accordingly so that we can continue to take animals of this quality.

You will be hunting a special area of the Alaskan Range. It also provides me with huge Dall rams at the same time. We take rams in the 43 inch class there in My Juristic Park.

It is possible to schedule a Kodiak bear hunt and apply in May. Then if you do draw we have a Kodiak hunt and I will throw in a free black bear with your Kodiak. If you don't draw than we can hunt the interior brown bear mentioned above. Just to throw in the mix I do have Kodiak Sitka Blacktail a subspecies of the Mule deer in Canada and the lower 48 states for $5,000 discounted down to only $ 3,495. Any combo hunts I will discount prices for the second animal of course.

Hunt Descriptions

SHEEP

We hunt sheep in the Alaska Range in and around the Denali Preserve. Our sole use guiding concession gives us access to some great country that is out of reach to all other guides. The granite spires and glacial valleys are also home to caribou, grizzly and black bear, wolf and wolverine as well as moose. It is not unusual to see sheep, caribou, and bears all at the same elevations. The constant animal sightings keep the hunt interesting and entertaining.

You do not need to draw a tag to hunt sheep in our area. The season runs from August 10th through September 20th. All of our sheep hunts are backpack hunts which take us into some remote and spectacular areas. Additional animals can be added to your sheep hunt for those with the time and energy.

BEAR

Bear hunts are conducted every spring and fall. We hunt interior grizzly bear, coastal brown bear, and black bear. Bears can also be taken with a trophy fee on most of our other hunts.

INTERIOR GRIZZLY

These hunts are conducted in both spring and fall and can be combined with black bear. All of our bear hunts are fair chase with spot and stalk being the usual hunting method. We are now able to offer hunts for two grizzlies during the same hunt. Boar grizzly bears can grow to 9' and even larger, but the average is around 8 ft. Bears in the 8 1/2 feet. range are not uncommon however. The seasons run from early April through May in the spring and from August well into November in the fall.

BROWN BEAR

These hunts are conducted either on the Alaska Peninsula or Kodiak Island. These hunts give you the opportunity to hunt the largest brown bears in the state. It is very possible to kill a 9' to 10' or larger bear. The area that these monsters live in is some of the most remote and rugged country left in the world. We have comfortable tent camps and a couple of cabins that are strategically located in the heart of fantastic hunting country. Our peninsula hunts are conducted on 450 square miles of Native land lease that enables us to have no outside competition. The spring seasons start in April and run through May and the fall seasons run October through November.

MOOSE

We had a fantastic moose season this year both in the Alaska Range and out of our fishing lodge. We killed a 66" whopper and three others in the 60s. Three hunters took grizzlies while on their moose hunt and enjoyed some world class fishing.

Our moose seasons are in September and can be combined with sheep, black bear, grizzly bear, caribou, wolf, or wolverine.

DEER

Deer season runs August 1st through December 31st. fall on Kodiak is a great time to visit and a deer hunt is a great way to bring a group of friends. Fishing, duck hunting, bear, and goat are all possible on a combo hunt.

GOAT

We can help you through the draw process on Kodiak Island. These hunts can be combined with deer, bear, fishing, or ducks. Goats are one of the most underrated trophies in the state. Their long fall hair and powerful build, coupled with their impressive climbing skills makes these cliff dwellers an exceptional animal to hunt.

CARIBOU

We have taken some really nice bulls the last few years in our Denali Preserve area. We are hunting a mountain herd that tends to be found in groups ranging from a single animal to two dozen. With all the additional animals available, this hunt is really fun.

We will be offering baited brown bear hunts this year. This is in a predator management area and the Alaskan Fish and Game passed it last year. These hunts have potential for 9 1/2 foot bears and are scheduled on the spring on a limited basis. Hunters can take Brown and black bear on these hunts. They are 10-day hunts hosted out of cabins and are $18,995. Note, these hunts are perfect for archery hunters.
