

HUNT ID: CO-ELKMDEERANTELOPE-PA1P-RA4IGC-AM1ONAR-@5026

Located in the famous big game capitol in Northwest corner of Colorado are some of the best elk and mule deer hunting in the state. This outfitter offers fully guided hunts on approximately 6,000 acres of game rich private land in GMU004. The number of hunters per season is limited to 4-6. Your hunt will include a house with modern accommodations, three meals per day, and transportation to and from the hunting area. We offer privacy and a very exclusive experience that separates you from the rest of the world so you can focus on one thing, filling your license and tagging out on deer, elk or both!

We hunt our property very lightly with only 2 guides and only 4 hunters maximum per season. We book early and have a 75% return client base.

You will enjoy home cooked meals along with good old Colorado hospitality. They have been associated with hunting and guiding for many years and their professional style of hunting shows many years of experience that has been provided on their prime hunting land and guided hunts. They provide guided hunts with a limited number of hunters to continue provide the quality of wildlife on their property. Each of our guides has worked year-round on the ranches for over 25 years so they know the range well, and how the animals typically utilize it along with the best methods to make you successful.

The ranch properties are located below the Routt National Forest where the animals come for safety and migration. The terrain consists of hills covered with service and oak brush in the upper portion, to the lower end, where it is primarily sage brush covered range. In the middle, irrigated meadows and alfalfa fields can be found. This allows us a variety of hunting methods to cope with different season and different weather patterns. Most of the acreage is accessible with vehicles and we walk to the remote edges. We can put as many, or as few miles on your hiking boots as you wish. The elevation ranges from approximately 6,500 feet to 7,500 feet above sea level which makes breathing and adjusting to the Colorado air simple for most hunters even for hunters coming from sea level. Transportation is 4 wheel drive truck.

All five day fully guided hunts include the following:

- A house with modern accommodations
- Three meals per day (noon sack lunch)
- Transportation to and from the hunting area
- Your game will be packed out and taken to a processing plant
- Two guides per season

Hunters must furnish their own license, gun and personal belongings. You are also responsible for game processing fees and transporting your game home.

Our ranches are located on the edge of the Bears Ears elk herd's summer range, and have become a major corridor when the herd begins its migration to winter range. Though they are not all on the ranches year round, there are times in which several thousand can be seen as the snow falls and the migration continues. However, the elk are much like the weather; they can be here today and gone tomorrow. Like everywhere elk are gypsies. Most don't have a standard home range during hunting season. They move with the changing of food supplies, seasons, migration, rut and hunting pressure.

We are fortunate enough to be located in "heaven" for mule deer. The terrain which consists of hills with service, oak and sage brush provide excellent habitat for large numbers of resident deer. The large amount of hay and crop land also encourages the deer to make this their home. Limited hunting has allowed us to see a major response in the quality of bucks we harvest.

Antelope are of plenty on the ranches from when the snow leaves in the spring, until about the first of November. Several hundred make their home here in our sage country, irrigated meadows and alfalfa fields. Though they migrate west to less snow in the winter, it appears to be the same ones returning each year with their offspring and others.
