Don't miss out on a hunt of a Lifetime in Utah with the voucher included.

We have a limited number of hunts for the 2015 hunting season but they are going fast.

This is a guided hunt on an 8,000 acre ranch in Northwest Utah.

Our past history has been very good and we have been running at a 100% harvest rate for quite some time. The weather is very enjoyable in September with crisp nights warm morning to mid-day with a thunderstorm passing through many afternoons. This makes for an enjoyable hunt in the mountains. This isn't a high impact hunt but like any hunt the better your condition the better odds for better success. My logic is why hunt deer in the snow and cold of November when you can shoot them in September by looking for the herds that are easier to spot. All deer have to be somewhere 100% of the time. We just shoot them at the time that is nice for us to be out hunting. Many of my hunters from California say they would never do it another way after hunting the buck in September with me.

The bucks we take as a norm run in the 140 to 160 class, with larger bucks possible as we will see deer while hunting that we have never seen before. You will also have free meals and lodging so that you can have a 100% chance to take the buck of your lifetime with all of your efforts pointed to that one chase. Of course the hunt includes the tag so you can buy a license for this specular hunt.

Most hunting is by 4x4 trucks with glassing for just the buck that you want. When it is spotted it is time to work out the best rough for the stalk. This time of the year the bucks are in Bachelor herds so we focus on these known bachelor herd locations. It is great because when you see one buck you know there are more in the immediate area around his age. The glassing here is to tear apart every limb and twig to find the bucks "Comrades in Arms". There will be 1 that is larger than the others the monarch that thinks for the group and will quickly leave the herd if he feels threatened, knowing that 1 buck is more difficult to locate than 5.

Once located their location, the wind, their normal movement at that time of the year and that time of day all come in to play to decide on a stalk to the deer or an option to slip up to where they are heading and lay in wait for their arrival.

Many times if the bucks are all standing and alert we will wait until they all bed down and have a low view level. Then we will stalk up to the spot where we know they are bedded but stop within 200 yards down wind. Then we set up for the shot with a good rest and good angled view of where they are bedded many times that is above them. When they get up to feed in the afternoon with are within 200 yards, have a good rest, and just have to select the biggest of the herd. You will see a lot of deer, and if you want the guide to hold your bullet for you so you don't shoot too early that can be arranged. We can promise you a good time on a great ranch full of Muley's worth taking and hanging on anyone's wall.

Utah has always been known as a state that produces world-class Mule Deer bucks. Literally every area of the state has the potential to produce record-class bucks. There are many limited-entry units and Cooperative Wildlife Management Units capable of producing bucks of a lifetime. A Cooperative Wildlife Management Unit (CWMU) is a large tract of private property that has been issued its own tags by the State of Utah and has given hunters the privilege to hunt deer with a rifle from the first of September into November. Utah may be the only state in the U.S. to allow rifle elk hunting during the rut. Because of their habits and the terrain they live in, harvesting a mature, trophy Mule Deer buck is a great accomplishment.

We hunt on private lands in the Cooperative Wildlife Management Unit status, that are carefully managed to produce trophy bucks and have boasted a success rate in the high 90s year after year. The majority of deer harvested, fall in the 150" to 170" class range with 180" and larger bucks being a real possibility. There will never be more than 4 hunters in camp at a time, thus allowing a quality, personalized hunt with no overcrowding. Tags for these hunts are guaranteed, with no need to apply for a draw. We will send you all the paper work necessary to obtain your tag. We are also very familiar with several limited-entry units throughout the state that produce trophy bucks every year and can assist you in obtaining a permit for these units through the draw or the bid process at local conservation groups' banquets and auctions. We offer archery, rifle, or muzzleloader hunts, and whatever you choose; you will have the hunt of a lifetime. If you are looking for a deer hunt that we may not offer, let us know. With over 25 years of experience in the business, we have a network of trusted, reputable outfitters that can offer you a quality hunt.

Don't miss your chance for a Utah Wall Hanger there are only 4 left, and there is a lot of interest.
