

Hunt ID: WY-MDeerAntelope-All-EEKAYC-LFL-TEVES

This is for the hunter that wants to hunt on private land for TROPHY antelope but doesn't want a full blown guided with lodging and meals hunt for antelope. The private property is located in unit 20 near the town of Kaycee in Wyoming. This area provides animals that are worthy of paying the couple of hundred dollars for a non-resident buck antelope license. Also the guide knows where the biggest bucks have been staying and will stop you from needing to scout thousands of acres for the biggest one, where he knows where the biggest bucks stay. Few people admit it but judging a antelope horn size on the hoof is extremely difficult in fact the only one more difficult is the mountain goat they don't have a prong but you can get closer and usually have high end optics to see through. THIS OUTFITTER SPECIALIZES IN ARCHERY ANTELOPE HUNTING.

A record class antelope and a good antelope are very difficult because with antelope the length and the width are the most noticeable factor. In actuality in the way that antelope are measured you score a zero no matter what the width is and short and fat horn score much better than high and skinny horns. It may be a flat table top piece of ground and you can't crawl within 500 yards of them without being seen. The guide will know how to fix that, it is why he is a guide and not a hunter, but be certain to be sighted dead on at 200 yards with a flat shooting rifle you will need all of the distance you can when the opportunity arises, give him all of the help you can. The property runs around 20,000 so there is plenty of ground to find a trophy antelope. Also practice shooting 250 and 300 yards so you know what it and an antelope look like at that range. These are mature antelope so they are much more difficult than any antelope. They got big because they have been able to stay away from bullets so far. This will not just be a truck hunt but there will be some walking involved to slip over the edges of basins undetected. This areas season runs from October 15th to November 15th.

Wyoming is blessed with thousands of miles of perfect habitat to produce antelope. Because of that the number of antelope occupying the state is higher than the number of people occupying that same state. For the antelope hunter that is great news. When hunting an animal you need animal density and don't want people density. Throw this on top of the fact that Wyoming has more antelope than all of the rest of the whole country.

If you want to shoot an additional doe with a rifle it is $200 to take one.

Guided Antelope on Private Land in Unit 20 with lodging and meals is $2000 reduce to only $1595. Remove lodging and meals for $ 400 and it is only $1095

He must know what he is doing he has kept a success rate of 100% with rifle antelope hunts, with some antelope being 16+ inches of horn length.

We also have excellent mule deer hunting but only take 2 to 4 hunters per year and we have just elk hunting for archery season. Those hunts usually book up a year in advance. As it is sometimes there are left over licenses for unit 20 but they don't last long and in July it is a first come first serve situation for licenses.

We are fully dedicated to providing a first class outfitting service. We strive to provide a professional, personal guiding service to our hunter. Our guides are well prepared and will do their best to fulfill the hunter expectation in the field.

Archer Only Options

Archery hunts are more of a semi-guided affair. The outfitter is a archer himself with some wall hanger animals of his own. Because of that he does provide antelope hunting with archery equipment. You will most likely be hunting water holes and he will show you which watering holes are the most active. Please bring as many ground blinds as you wish it can be helpful to put ground blinds at more than one water hole. Wipe the ground clean of tracks at your alternate blind location and set up a ground blind. Then go to your primary water hole blind, get set up and hunt there. Later if needed, you can see if any antelope came into your alternate water hole. If so you know where to be the next day. You are allowed 1 buck or doe on the hunt. An additional doe is only $ 100 for this archery hunt. This leaves you with a cost on the 3 day hunt at $1095; if you want to take a doe also it is only $100. If you feel a 3 days is not enough than it is only $ $100 to extend the hunt. You can extend the hunt to a 5 day hunt when booking by adding $100 per day as $200 to make it a 5 day hunt. Some year like this one you can even take two bucks. Because of this if you do want to take a second buck it is only $595. Of course the hunters is responsible to have whatever license(s) that are required to take whatever antelope he books the hunt for and for the ones he hunts.
